DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Carville House was located on the west side of Maryland Route 8 near Mattapex on Kent Island. The building was demolished sometime in the mid-20th century. A grove of locust trees in the middle of an open field across from the entrance to Shipping Creek Plantation (QA-192) marks the site. The following description is based on a photograph taken in 1936 by E. H. Pickering, a noted Maryland photographer.

The house is of brick construction, 2 1/2 stories high, three bays wide, and one room deep with flush chimneys at each end of a pitched gable roof. A 1 1/2 story brick wing projects from the south gable wall. It is four bays long and one room deep, with a single flush chimney centered on the south end of a pitched gable roof. The house and wing appear to have been constructed at the same time, probably in the last quarter of the 18th century. In the second quarter of the 19th century the north portion of the wing was raised to 2 1/2 stories.

The front facade of the main house faces approximately due east, toward Route 8. The door

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The Carville House is similar to a number of 2 1/2 story brick houses still surviving in the county which were constructed in the last quarter of the 18th century. The overall form, proportions, and fenestration are particularly reminiscent of the John C. White house (QA-207) and Great Hopes (QA-1). The original wing was modified in an unusual manner with the addition of a second story at the north end in the second quarter of the 19th century.
